Win a visit to your school by Audrey Penn

*Author of *The Kissing Hand

Every year, Audrey Penn hears about new ways early childhood teachers are using The Kissing Hand in their classrooms. Parents, too, tell her how the book eases the transition from home to school. And librarians report on ways the book has helped children cope with other separations and losses. Each describes something new about how they use the book.

We'd like to share these ideas with everyone so you can all benefit from your colleagues' experiences.

Send us a brief (250 words or less) description of the way you use The Kissing Hand. We will enter all of them into a sweepstakes and select our winners at random. One school or library will win a free day-long visit by author Audrey Penn. Four runners-up (also selected at random) will win an autographed copy of the book.

We will round up the best ideas and put them on our website so others can put your ideas into practice.
